No child on planet earth should have been given the experimental Covid clot shot, and now we're seeing millions of maimed and dead babies and kids and the Vaccine Industrial Complex is blaming everything else, but the truth is coming out.

The Biden-to-Trump transition in federal health leadership has ushered in sweeping changes at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's (CDC) vaccine advisory panel, known as the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices (ACIP). This panel plays a pivotal role in shaping national vaccine policy: its recommendations inform CDC guidance, determine insurance coverage for vaccines, and set the conditions under which many states allow health care providers to administer immunizations.

- RFK Jr., as HHS Secretary, removed all 17 members of the CDC's vaccine advisory panel (ACIP) in June, citing conflicts of interest, and is now considering up to seven new appointees.

- Several potential nominees have questioned COVID-19 vaccines or the U.S. pandemic response, including claims that shots caused deaths, heart problems, or other harms in children.

- Critics argue some candidates have ties to anti-vaccine groups or flawed studies, raising concerns about the scientific integrity of ACIP's future recommendations.

- The next ACIP meeting on Sept. 18–19 will address COVID-19 and other vaccines, but it is unclear whether Kennedy's new panel members will be vetted and appointed in time.

Covid Vaccine Linked to Child Deaths, Trump Administration to Say

In June, Health and Human Services (HHS) Secretary Robert F. Kennedy Jr. removed all 17 sitting ACIP members, claiming the group was "plagued with persistent conflicts of interest." Though Kennedy provided no evidence for the claim—and independent reviews have found conflicts of interest in ACIP at historically low levels—he quickly installed eight new members of his own choosing. Now, according to a leaked list reported by Dr. Jeremy Faust, Kennedy is preparing to appoint as many as seven additional members, potentially reshaping ACIP with individuals skeptical of mainstream vaccine science.

Several of the names under consideration have questioned the safety of COVID-19 vaccines or criticized the nation's pandemic response. Emergency physician Dr. Joseph Fraiman co-authored a controversial 2022 Vaccine journal article suggesting an excess risk of serious adverse events from mRNA-based COVID-19 shots. At a Florida roundtable hosted by Governor Ron DeSantis, Fraiman dismissed the "safe and effective" label attached to vaccines, calling it a "lie."

Another candidate, geneticist Dr. Cathy Stein of Case Western Reserve University, has opposed mask mandates and business shutdowns and co-authored a paper criticizing pandemic modeling in Ohio. She has ties to Health Freedom Ohio, an affiliate of Children's Health Defense, the anti-vaccine group founded by Kennedy.

Pediatric neurologist Dr. John Gaitanis has acted as an expert witness in vaccine injury cases, receiving more than $56,000 for his work under the National Vaccine Injury Compensation Program. Pediatric cardiologist Dr. Kirk Milhoan has testified publicly that COVID-19 vaccines contribute to heart-related deaths and disabilities, citing a Cleveland Clinic study that he interpreted as showing greater vaccination increased COVID-19 risk—though independent experts dispute that reading.

Other names reportedly under review include pharmacist Dr. Hillary Blackburn, OB-GYN Dr. Evelyn Griffin, and transplant surgeon Dr. Raymond Pollak, known for whistleblowing on billing practices at the University of Illinois at Chicago.

The overhaul of ACIP has raised alarms among former panel members and public health experts, who emphasize that vetting candidates for financial and scientific conflicts typically takes months. With the next ACIP meeting scheduled for September 18–19, where the group will consider updated recommendations for COVID-19 vaccines alongside those for hepatitis B, MMR, and RSV, the potential seating of new members looms large.

For Kennedy, the reshaping of ACIP fits within his broader "Make America Healthy Again" agenda, which places heavy emphasis on the risks of endocrine-disrupting chemicals and vaccine safety. Critics argue that replacing mainstream vaccine experts with individuals who have cast doubt on immunization risks undermining public trust, potentially reshaping U.S. vaccine policy in ways that could reduce uptake and weaken protection against preventable diseases.

An HHS spokesperson declined to confirm the final roster of candidates, stating only: "You will hear it from us when there are new members to announce."
